WEDNESDAY EVEN'G., NOVEMBER 14.

"SPARE THE ROD."—To spare the rod does not spoil the child. In the words of Mrs. Malaprop, "there is too much castigating with malice before thought." There is not one child in one hundred that needs the application of the birch, while seventy out of every hundred are either boxed, strapped or thumped every week they live. Punishing children is a relic of the barbarous ages which has been preserved and handed down from generation to generation without cause, and greatly to the detriment of the moral standard and physical development of the human race. He who serves from love serves with greater fidelity and devotion than he who serves from fear. A child that bears the rump of a harsh thimble thump into his Sunday school class may repeat with apparent enthusiasfi the story of Abel's sacrifice, but deep down in his youthful heart beats impulses akin to those of Cain. Human nature partakes more of the spirit of revenge than of the spirit of forgiveness, and a child smarting under the lash looks upon punishment as a spiteful dealing rather than a measure of parental love. A Pennsylvania mother, who is a member of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, recently punished her daughter in a most savage manner with a horsewhip because she persisted in keeping the companionship of a young woman friend whom her mother disliked. A short time afterwards the body of the girl was found floating in the river. A Missouri father recently threw an unabridged edition of Webster's dictionary at his son, breaking his nose, because the boy innocently broke a pane of glass with a bean shooter. The pane of glass cost ten cents. The boy's disfigurement will be a constant mortification to him and will tend to dwarf his moral nature through life, as Byron's deformed foot soured his disposition and made him an irrascible man. It does not pay to bruise the body of a child any more than it pays to bruise ripening fruit. Bury the rod as the Indian buries the hatchet. It means peace—peace to the conscience, peace to the body, peace to the hearthstone. Reconciliation comes not by the rod, nor pacification by hostile frowing .- St. Louis Times.

duced, as it is a solution of iron in as nearly as possible the form in which it exists in the blood. It is a preparation of invariable strength and purity, obtained by a process of dialysation, the iron being separated from its combinations by endosmosis, according to the law of diffusion of liquids. It has no styptic taste, does not blacken the teeth, disturb the stomach or constipate the bowels. It affords, therefore, the very best mode of administering iron. For sale by aug 16 E. S.
